GRATEFUL-COMFORTING. EPPS'S COCOA! BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which gov-ern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa. Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle mala-dies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nour-ished frame."—See Article in the Civil Service Gazette. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8. CHRISTIANITY AND FREE THOUGHT,

Having been asked to give my opinion of the article under the above heading in the October number of Scribner's Monthly, I proceed to do it Lumber! briefly, to satisfy my correspondent, and for the sake of others who may be interested in the sub-LEWERS AND DICKSON

To the writer's glance at the history of the church I take no exception. He says, " To the purely moral and spiritual requirements of Jesus, there had very early been superadded a set of external conditions. And it is the sorrowful task of the candid christian historian to show that with amazing rapidity the external requirements overshadowed and dwarfed the moral and spiritual elements of christianity."

Nor' West 1 inch Boards, Nor' West 14 Plank, This is very true; and is it not also true that Nor' West 11 in. Plank; 2, 3, and 4 in. Plank, free thought had much to do in overshadowing Nor' West Tongued & Grooved Boards, 1 & 14 and dwarfing the spiritual and moral elements of christianity? Free thought rightfully belongs to man; and like everything else, it may be abused. The French revolutionists exercised free thought with a vengeance, when they decreed that there is no God, and that death is an everlasting sleep. Strauss, and Blauvelt, and Colenso, and many others have exercised this right in a way to undermine the very foundations of religious belief, and thus to encourage men to yield to all their selfish inclinations and lusts. A CHOICE CARGO

The writer seems to think that belief, or faith. is of little importance; though he does " not ignore the fact that intellectual beliefs have a direct bearing on character." In fact, belief is very intimately connected with character, especially with those who govern their passions and appetites. Saul of Tarsus believed that he ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth, and that belief made him a most bitter persecutor. A little later, that same Saul believed in Jesus, the Son of God, the Savior of the world, and that belief rendered him a most earnest and successful preacher of the gospel. " Character is central and supreme;" but character cannot be separated from belief. In the life and teaching of Christ, the writer finds "the conception of religion as simply rightdoing in the broadest and loftiest sense, set forth with a force and fulness, a familiarity and vividness of illustration, and a power of personal example, to which it is impossible to do any justice in a passing allusion. The typical instances of His doctrine are such passages as the blessings pronounced on the pure in heart, the peace makers, them that hunger and thirst after righteousness; the summing up of moral obligation in love to God and love to man; the promise that they who forgive shall be forgiven; the sublime representation of a great day of award, in which the sole test and condition of divine favor is to have fed the hungry, and clothed the naked, and comforted the sick and sorrowful." Again he gives us the Master's definitions of religion, humility, purity, hunger and thirst for righteousness; love to God and love to man; absolute trust in the power that rules the universe ; [their part of the definition looks very much like belief.] the spirit of brotherhood toward all mankind,these ideas are in perfect consonance with the spirit of the most fearless truth-seeking; they supply to it the firmest basis and the noblest mo

Now it seems to me that the writer, in these references to the teachings of the Master, manifests a great lack of candor. He would have it appear that the Lord Jesus made no account of belief; whereas on the contrary, he made it of the first importance. When the Jews asked him, " What shall we do, that we may work the works of God," he answered, "This is the work of God, that ye believe in him whom he hath sent." He said to Martha, "He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." Again he said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved."

To believe is to put confidence in, to trust. Thus Paul wrote to Timothy, "I know whom I have believed, or trusted, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day." It was this trust in the Lord Jesus that made the great apostle so Belief is an essential element in the Christian religion. So taught the great Teacher. So taught the apostles. But there always have been those who "being ignorant of God's righteousness, and seeking to establish their own righteousness, have not submitted themselves to the righteousness of God. For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth.' This talk about "humility, purity, hunger and thirst for righteousness, love to God and love to man," etc., without any reference to faith in Christ, is little, if any better than the teachings of the old heathen philosophers, Plutarch, Seneca,

The writer speaks of Mr. Moody not without praise, but with the censure also, that with the great good he is doing there "goes a steady, quiet repulsion of a large class of minds from the Christianity which is thus presented." This is undoubtedly true; for the offence, or scandal of the cross has not yet ceased. If the Lord Jesus were to return to the earth, his preaching would repel many, as it did in the days of his flesh.

RUSSIAN GENERALS IN ARMENIA.—It is interesting On Fort Street to know something of the nationalities of the leading Russian generals who have turned the tide of war in Armenia, and dealt so terrible a blow to the BRANCH OF THE OLDEST AND "Victor" Mukhtar. Both Melikoff and Tergukassoff are Armenians by birth. The former com-The Best Assortment of Pipes | mands the Alexandropol corps, and the latter the Erivan corps. The commander of the Achalzic corps, General Dewel, is a German. In fine, General Oklobschis, the commander of the Rion corps is Montenegrin by birth. Melikoff is 53 years of age. He was educated in the Lazareff Institution at Moscow, and speaks well Armenian, Turkish, Persian, Russian, and French; but neither German nor English. He began his military career as an officer of a hussar regiment at St. Petersburg. He owed much of his military success to the patronage of General Mouravieff, Governor General of the Caucasus. Tergukassof first won fame and glory as the hero who planted the Russian colours on the walls of Guniz in the last fight of Shamil against the Roossky, in which he was taken prisoner. Dewel has won with his sword a general's rank in Russia, like so many other German soldiers of fortune, Oklobschio, the Montenegrin, has served many years in the Russian army, and is considered a brave, but rash commander. It is remarkable that not one of the commanders of the four Russian army corps in Armenia, is a Russian.
